A long positive story in the Egyptian market

Carlo Gavazzi Egypt, owned by Bonatti Group, has been established in Egypt in 1997 to operate as E&IC contractor in oil & gas, power generation, petrochemical, steel mill plants and electrical substations. In the oil & gas sector, Zohr and West Nile Delta projects represent the two most challenging achievements of CGE in Egypt, due to their "Fast Track" implementation, both completed well ahead of the time with the complete satisfaction of customers, BP/Bechtel and ENI/Petrobel, in terms of the required standards of Safety and Quality. In the power generation, the New Capital 4.8GW power station represents the latest ment by the company in the country. In line with the ambitious plan of Egypt 2030, to become the regional hub for electricity export in African and European markets, Egypt has already booked a seat among the leading countries in electric power generation and distribution. CGE has done important experiences with the Egyptian Electricity Holding Company in the field of power generation, has successfully signed a contract with Schneider Electric Egypt, the 4 Districts Control Center (4DCC) as the main contractor. The contract aims to upgrade more than 1,000 electricity kiosks in a timeframe of twelve months. Moreover, CGE has won another contract with the Chinese NARI Group Corporation: the upgrading of Cairo Regional Control Center (CRCC). This project aims to improve the level of supervision, control and management of high-voltage substations. The future strategy is to maintain such leading position in the country, operating as a local registered company, granting on Bonatti Group support.
